

Women's Health Lobby Day

Wednesday, February 5, 2003

Let your voice be heard!

Texas Campaign for Women's Health invites you to join women's health care advocates from around the state to urge legislators to fund important women's health care services. Our message is simple: *The state must fund services to help the more than 1.6 million uninsured Texas women receive the health care services they need! You don't need any prior lobbying or advocacy experience.

This is a unique opportunity for you to meet and talk to your representative as part of a diverse, statewide coalition that supports funding for women's health care in Texas.

The Texas Campaign for Women's Health comprises a wide range of organizations including multi-issue advocacy groups, professional associations, and community-based health care service providers, support groups and activists. This broad base of support shows legislators that women's health is not just a concern to certain special interest groups, but to constituents representing a wide range of groups and interests. Your participation matters! You can help influence decisions about funding women's health care!!
